01 / A SOFT TAPE. A QUIET MOMENT.

All their little measurements.

A lovely place to keep the numbers, and the little details that make them useful.

Your Frenchie's name

Date measured

Units: inches or centimeters

Exact brand and model you are considering

A better starting point for fit.

Use the exact product's measuring diagram. Record the reading without adding a generic allowance; follow the maker's fitting instructions.

Chest / widest rib cage for the Ruffwear harnesses

Neck / at the point shown by the manufacturer

Back / use the garment maker's start and end points

Size chart checked on

Size to investigate

Let the fitting have the final say.

Watch them stand, turn, sit and walk. Notice panel placement, movement and head clearance. Stop if your dog seems uncomfortable.

A little note on what worked, or what needs another look

02 / FOR THE NEXT GOOD FIND.

Room for the everyday details.

Keep the useful notes, then leave a little room to change your mind.

Before the next little outing.

For the PetSafe Happy Ride Folding Ramp (model 62462), measure the actual ground-to-loading height. The maker specifies up to 24 inches. Height alone does not establish a suitable setup: follow placement and acclimation instructions.

Vehicle and loading point

Ground-to-loading height / units

Placement and support checks to confirm

Available trunk storage / units

Exact ramp / folded dimensions checked

The shopping notes worth keeping.

Retailer and exact model / size

Return deadline

Return condition / return shipping cost

Keep tags and packaging while checking fit. For treat toys, follow the exact size and chewing guidance, supervise use and remove damaged toys.

Fill and save this PDF on your device, or print it. A measurement record helps you compare; it does not guarantee fit or replace individual veterinary guidance.

Guides and sources: myfrenchiescloset.com/guides/measuring-and-fit.html